Dear Vendor,

Effective December 30th, Hydro Agri North America, Inc. has officially become known as Yara North America, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Yara International ASA. Yara is the new name for the Hydro Agri division being separated from Norsk Hydro ASA. Yara will continue with the Viking Ship as the logo. Different versions of the Viking Ship have been the core element in Norsk Hydro's logo since the company's inception in 1905, and today's version has been in use for the last 20 years. The Viking Ship is a well-recognized brand for Hydro's fertilizer products all over the world.

Hydro Agri is the world's leading fertilizer company and the only global player in the fertilizer industry. Hydro Agri is present in approximately 50 countries and sold 22 million tons of fertilizers to customers in 130 countries during 2002. Hydro has decided to position Agri for further growth through listing as a separate company. The listing of the new company on the Oslo stock exchange is planned for March 25th, 2004, and the company's headquarters will remain in Oslo. Thorleif Enger, who has led Hydro Agri since 1999, will continue to lead the new company after the separation from Hydro.

You can find more information about this change by visiting www.hydroagri.com on the Internet. On behalf of all the employees at Hydro Agri North America, Inc., now Yara North America, Inc., we wish you a prosperous 2004.

Best regards,

Leesa Burns
Vice President
Finance & Administration
